DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed March 3, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant relies on the preamble to establish the limitation of a pulse electromagnetic laser. The preamble has not been given any patentable weight, since the recited steps and structural limitations are able to stand-alone and do not depend on the preamble for completeness. MPEP 2111.02.

Passive mode locking and dispersion compensation are techniques well known in the laser art, as disclosed by Weingarten et al.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Regarding claim 49, the phrase "such as" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitations following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Claims 53-56 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear if applicant's intention is to establish claim 53 as independent or dependent.

Claims 54-56 recites the limitation "means" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claims 67-70 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear if applicant's intention is to establish claim 67 as independent or dependent.

Claim 71 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Applicant is combining a method steps limitations and apparatus limitations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 37-48, 50-52, 57-59 and ~~60~~-66 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kasamatsu et al (Applied Optics, Laser-diode-pumped Nd:YAG active mirror laser) in view of Weingarten et al (5,987,049).

Regarding limitations of claims 37-41,45-47,48,50,51,57-~~50~~,61 and 62.

Kasamatsu et al illustrates in figure 1 an optical resonator having a Nd:YAG thin disk gain medium where one face is cooled by a heat sink and the other face is excited for emitting electromagnetic radiation. One of the faces of the gain medium has a reflective coating Kasamatsu et al fails to disclose means passive mode locking and means for introducing negative dispersion.

Weingarten et al illustrates in figure 4 a semiconductor saturable absorber (11) for passive mode locking of the resonator and a pair of prism (16,17) for dispersion compensation. Weingarten et al also discloses the mode locking capabilities of a kerr lens (column 6).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the saturable absorber and pair of prisms of Weingarten et al in the device of Kasamatsu because it would provide passive mode locking and dispersion compensation of the laser system, as both techniques are well known in the laser art.

Regarding claims 42 and 63

Kasamatsu and applicant disclose a 2mm thick gain medium.

Therefore it would be obvious for both gain mediums to support short pulses.

Regarding claims 43,44 and 64,65

Kasamatsu et al illustrates in figure 1, a laser device having a rear mirror and an output coupler having a reflectivity of 90,95,98,99%.

Therefore, it would obvious for the gain medium to be hit more than two times by the electromagnetic radiation.

Regarding claims 52 and 66

Examiner takes official notice of the use of a means for Q-switch mode locking. Q-switch mode locking is a very well known and commonly used technique in the laser art.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 60 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claim 60.

None of the prior arts alone or in combination discloses optical resonator with the limitations of claim 57 having a radiation repetition rate lower than 100MHz and 50 MHz.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
